After experimenting with many purified natural compounds our research finally succeeded with the perfected composition of Telos95®, scientifically is validated to halts telomere shortening. The research was conducted by the world experts on telomere testing, LIFE LENGTH of Madrid, Spain. They performed analysis using worldwide patented Life Length Technology. This test is the first phase of a series of clinical research about the additional efficacy of cell immunity and other benefits of Telos95®. The second phase is a 24 months large human study to clinically demonstrate the effects of Telos95® supplement over a long time period. The study is currently conducted in the United States utilizing saliva testing for telomere shortening.
